

Announcements › Week 5

Week 5

Posted Jun 2, 2025 5:00 AM

We are up to week 5 and this week includes the Project One deliverable. Some of the components have already been completed through assignments and discussions. There are two documents to submit as part of the project. I will be reviewing the Module 4 discussion early in the week in order to get you feedback on the Gantt chart, which is to be included in the project.

Other than the project, there is a discussion based on the reading for the week. The reading looks at three different types of system models, and asks you to contrast functional, structural, and behavioral models related to an ATM system. No diagrams are needed for this discussion item.

Have a great week and, as always, feel free to reach out if you have any questions.